China—Yevusius—Russia
Congratulating Mr. Hill
The Twelve Great Novels
Try Back-Slapping

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

CONDITIONS are a little worse in China, there is room to continue the war, so big a country as China is captured by savage, determined men from Canton. British traders, trading with natives, are being treated and beaten. The English want too much of that.

YEVUSIUS is in eruption, many are now earthquakes, terrible scenes.

Russia is as powerful as Yevusius and is a nation, is planning new wars, the Balkans, building strong bases in Albania, after the war of Caesar. It keeps going.

Russia discusses the czar's deal with Japan and may pay some large business. She might even buy back the bonds of Wall Street and Kravits' bonds. It's trying to borrow millions to borrow another millions.

Mr. FEATHER, "Business Philosopher," says salesmen are treated poorly in big concerns than small ones.

Concerns that once were small are now big because they were not as courteous. They are not because they are big.

Business costs nothing, but is worth nothing. The American Tobacco Co., know how to advertise as well as manufacture, gives stockholders cheering news about business and the out-of-pocket last year were $22,540,000 the best year thus far.

George W. Hill is to be congratulated on continuing his late father's work so well.

ARNOLD BENNETT names the 12 greatest novels, all Russian. "The Brothers Karamazov" he calls greatest of all. It depends on what you call great. Among photographic studios, famous and drunken degenerates, "The Brothers Karamazov" might win the championship. But "Les Misérables" "Oliver Twist," "David Copperfield," "Huckleberry Finn," "Westward Ho!" and the young "Vanity Fair" and a long list of others are worth to a world as wants to go in the right direction than all the Russian novels put together.

Everybody knows that drunkards are vulgar, some women nervously and tactfully immoral, but what of it?

Two such hand-shaking has joined the president's right arm. If red blots rub noses until their noses are away we'd laugh. Our money, yes, handshaking means an exchange of goods and excessive familiarity.

Continued Offensive

The Nationalists are today continuing on their triple offensive toward Nanking, Soochow and Sungkiang. The Shantungites are stemming the advance on the Nanking and Sungkiang fronts, but observers agree that they front will allow the advance on Soochow to continue, and this will cut off the Sungkiang and Shanghai defenders from their bases.

Shanghai officials here are silent regarding the army's collapse, but have declared that "order will be maintained and the lives and interests of the people will be safeguarded."

General Sun Chuan-Fang is reported to have looted several towns in the Yingshui Changchow sectors during his retreat.

The American, French, British and other foreign military commanders are conferring here this afternoon with the municipal councilors regarding precautionary measures in view of the imminent capture of the city.

Agitators are continuing their terrorist methods aiming to enforce a general strike to celebrate the Nationalists victory.

British military reinforcements have been ordered from Hongkong to Shanghai.

NEITHER a borrower nor a lender lent, but if you must be a borrower, take up Moody's Manual. Book prices are "hardening," book prices lots of money looking for investment. Liberty bonds that pay 4.5 per cent will be exchanged for 5.12.

Moody's take a 3.12 per cent money market. That will please investors who need lambs and wise brokers who will put up prices.

THE learned President Hibben of Princeton University says Secretary Mellon is unsound in his financial policies.

President Harding selected Mr. Mellon for secretary of the treasury, this writer, "Mr. Mellon is a sound, rich, man in the world." Secretary Mellon does not understand that he must have been sincere.

Prague, Mar. 19—Czecho-Slovakian newspapers report that Tyroleans and Carpathians, with the support of the fascists, are preparing to "march on Vienna" for the purpose of wiping out the fascists who now control the capital. The newspapers declare arms and munitions are arriving in Hungary.

TREACHERY IN ARMY
Foreign Forces Prepare for Emergency; British Call
More Troops

While confusion reigns within the northern forces the Cantonese troops are today forcing a triple offensive with every prospect of success.

The Cantonese armies are storming Nanking, Soochow and Sungkiang. They are meeting with stiff resistance at Nanking and Sungkiang, but at Soochow it appears there has been a collapse of the northern defenders with the probability that the Cantonese will march into Soochow and then direct their forces toward Shanghai.

The defenders of Nanking and Sungkiang are momentarily in danger of being cut off from supplies and reinforcements.

Shanghai, Mar. 19—Shanghai, chief seaport of China and the source of one quarter of the country's customs revenue, today trembled on the verge of capitalization to the Nationalist armies of General Chiang Kientsieh. The capture of the city within 72 hours is believed almost inevitable, due to the inexplicable collapse of General An Kuo Chun, field commander of the defending northern forces.

The Nationalists are expected to proceed to Shanghai from Soochow.

While the defections of the Sun
Chuan-Fang generals were important factors in the collapse of the defense forces, foreign observers send the probability of wholesale bribery and treachery within the ranks of the Shantung army.

Continued Offensive

Cleveland, Mar. 19—Failure of the last congress to pass the deficiency appropriations bill will probably result in a three months suspension of the federal court here, beginning April 1, it was announced today by Federal Judge Paul Jones.

Other federal courts all over the country will be similarly affected, it was said. Court attaches will receive no pay during the three months and there will be no money available to pay juries or other court expenses, it was said.

The court docket for this district will face a serious situation, Judge Jones indicated. In Cleveland there are 345 civil jury cases which the court was to have begun hearing April 3. There are 125 federal prisoners in the county jail and many more at liberty under court orders.

The U. S. marshal here may have a surplus which will keep the criminal court in operation for a few days after April 1. Upon their close, the civil and criminal courts will not be reopened until July 1.

British military reinforcements have been ordered from Hongkong to Shanghai.

BATTLE FOR NANKING
AT GATES OF CITY

Peking, Mar. 19—The battle between the Northern and Southern Chinese forces for the control of Nanking, ancient capital city of China, continued today almost at the southern gates of the city. The southerners are trying desperately to cut off the Nanking and Shanghai Railway and so isolate the northerners from their base, while the northerners are attempting to extend their drive into Honan province.

Washington, Mar. 19—Gov. Vic Donahey and leaders of the Ohio Legislature today were informed of the recommendation of State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy that legislative action be taken at the earliest possible date in an effort to pass the deficiency bill which includes an item of $1,190,000 for

In a communication addressed to the governor, Tracy declared that the state's general revenue fund has been overdrawn to the extent of $148,680,58, and predicted that there will be a cash deficit of not less than $8,883,000 in the fund by June 30, next.

"It will be necessary to levy additional revenues collectible at the earliest possible date to the amount of $13,- 350,000 to balance the state's budget for the current biennium," Tracy wrote the governor, enclosing appropriation and cash statements presenting the acute financial situation in detail.

Gov. Donahey is expected to use letter as the basis for a message to be

Confesses Holdup

Paul Jaworski

has confessed that he participated in the blowing up of payroll cars going to a roadhouse near Pittsburgh, Pa., when bandits obtained approximately $102,000, according to Pittsburgh police, who add that Jaworski told of other holdups, the total for all being $181,000. Detectives dug up $33,000. Detectives dug up $33,000.

The editor must have had a vision of Ford's peace ship sailing across the ocean a decade ago to "end the war by Christmas."

Say Ford Won't Appear

The odds remained even here among newspapermen that Ford would not appear, but his counsel insisted he would take the stand if the court called him. It was felt, however, that the Ford attorneys would block

Ford's appearance with technical objections or prevent his giving any testimony after he did take the stand.

Both sides apparently planned to make much of Sapiro's earnings from his co-operative plan. The defense introduced the subject in an effort to show to the jury that Sapiro sponsored the idea because he made such tremendous profits out of it. They promised to prove later on that Sapiro earned $10,000 in 12 states alone from co-operatives which were mentioned in the Dearborn Independent articles which the "wheat king" called libels.

The earnings included a $142,000 fee from the Tri-State Tobacco Association, $6,000 from the California Prune and Apricot Association, $10,000 from the Carolina Peanut Growers; $52,500 from the Kentucky Dark Leaf Tobacco Growers; $49,500 from the Burley Tobacco Growers, and $17,500 from the Maine Potato Farmers, with numerous lesser fees.

Sapiro's counsel will maintain this was but half the story and that the alleged libels, published by Ford, actually did Sapiro a million dollars worth of damage.

The man, who rose from an orphan's home to almost a throne above American agriculture, declared he would show that his dream of mighty chain of co-operatives from one end of America to the other, would have given permanent prosperity to American agriculture and a million dollars to himself.

Nash Introduces New Cabriolet, Coupe, and Sport Touring Models

Three brand new models—a Cabriolet, including the deck, and a darker shade with a rumble seat, on the Special Six chassis; a Coupe, with a rumble seat, on the Advanced Six chassis, and a Sport Touring model on the Advanced Six chassis—are announced by The Nash Motors Company. The Cabriolet, being shipped to dealers now, is priced at $1,290. f. o. b. Milwaukee; the Coupe at $1,775 f. o. b. Kenosha; and the Sport Touring is priced at $1,640 f. o. b. Kenosha. Shipments of the Sport Touring car will begin before the end of the month and of the Coupe about April 1.

With the addition of these new cars, the Nash line comprises twenty-six models, ranging in price from $365 to $2,600 f. o. b. factory, and all of them equipped with three-bearing crankshaft.

In the strikingly beautiful and impressively distinctive new Nash Special Six Cabriolet, the individuality and originality of roadster and coupe are successfully combined in a quickly convertible car of ultra-modern design and appointments.

Eye-catching with its rich coloring of deep maroon on the body and contrasting fenders and running gear of glistening black, the attractiveness of the new Cabriolet is further enhanced by its classic Burbank top with nickel coach bars. The top is easily adjustable and may be quickly lowered or raised. Upholstery of genuine leather covers the driving seat and the rumble seat. Space for two additional passengers is provided by the generously large rumble seat, which is available for use with the top up or down.

Included in an array of superb features are wide glass windows that may be lowered or raised with the top either up or down; a genuine walnut steering wheel with comfortable hand grip; and beautifully inlaid instrument panel of walnut.

Members of the Junior Class of Pleasant Township High School last night entertained more than 350 persons in the school auditorium with a production of "Rainbow Inn," a three-act farce comedy. Fourteen members of the class took part in the play, which was well received by the audience. The High School orchestra, in charge of J. C. Crim, gave a musical program which added greatly to the entertainment.

The comedy, "Rainbow Inn" is a hilarious one, based on the contrast between local residents and visitors to a summer resort in New England. Misunderstanding of habits and customs add to the complications which furnish the action of the play.

Miss Jane Williams, English instructor at the High School, coached the students in the production.

REFORMED WILL DEDICATE NEW EDIFICE SUNDAY

Impressive Ceremony Scheduled for Event; Work on Sunday School Complete

An impressive ceremony at First Reformed Church at 9 a. m. Sunday will serve to dedicate the new Sunday School auditorium completed this week as the first step in the erection of a complete new Sunday School and Church. A devotional service of songs and prayer in the old Sunday School department will be followed by a procession to the new building. Two representatives of the Sunday School will head the procession carrying American and Christian flags. Members of the school will follow in order of the classes, singing in unison, "Forward Christian Soldiers." A second devotional service will be held in the new room, the formal dedication to be included in the dedication ceremony of the new church next fall.

Address Scheduled

E. Harold Klingel will be heard in an address on the subject, "What of the Future?" Music will be furnished by the Sunday School orchestra.

Work on the Sunday School department was completed this week and work of razing to the ground the old church began. Footings for the new church will probably be laid early next week. Rev. Herbert E. Weckmueller, pastor, declares, until next fall, at which time it is thought the new building will be completed, Church as well as Sunday School will be held in the Sunday School division, said to seat, when completed, 1,000. Reverend Weckmueller's sermon for the service to be held there at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning will be on the subject, "Prophecy."

The Luther Bible Class has extended a cordial invitation to those not affiliated with other churches, to attend Sunday services at Reformed Church.

Joy of Christian Service

BY REV. JAMES M. FISHER
Pastor, Lee Street Presbyterian Mission

URING the fall and winter months many churches in Marion have been busy with special services in the interest of building up the Kingdom of God. Now spring time is here and new life is coming forth in nature. The birds are returning from the southland. The results of the service rendered during the past winter are being manifested in many ways. God has not been sleeping but rather keeping watch over His flock. Christians know in whom they have believed and they are persuaded that He is able to keep in which they commit unto Him. There is a joy in Christian service.

We have this joy given to us through the New Testament. Jesus spoke to His disciples in the upper room saying that the "Comforter will come, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things," and as they were leaving the room He gave them His reason for all the things He had revealed unto them, in these words: "These things have I spoken unto you, that you may be in you and that your joy may be made full." After He had left them and they were to carry on the work, their service was strengthened by their continual steadfastness and the breaking of bread at home, as they took their food with gladness and singleness of heart, praising God. A little later on these disciples were fogged because they proclaimed Jesus as Christ and they counted it worthy to suffer dishonor for His Name. Paul in jail writes to the Philippians: "Rejoice in the Lord always; again I say, rejoice."

We have this joy throughout the personality of Jesus: In answering the complaint that He was welcoming sinners as friends, Christ gave to the world the real joy of Christian Service; if we are true followers of the Master then we shall be as glad as a shepherd in finding the lost sheep; as happy as the housewife in finding the lost coin and as full of joy as the father when he welcomes the lost son back into the home. Certainly it is meet to make merry and be glad. Christ lived a joyful life; Christ died a joyful death, as He drew all mankind unto Himself.

May we in Marion rejoice as we approach the Easter Season. May we know our labors are not in vain in the Lord and may we find in the Book, through the Life the Joy of Christian Service and be able to say with David Livingstone: "I never made a sacrifice in my life."

Daily Proverb—"He who would gather roses must not fear thorns."

Anyway, we know the name of the president of Hayti, at last.

It's hardly seemly for the Rev. Billy Sunday to complain of "naked congregations" down in Florida. The "pickings" haven't been overly good for anybody down there since the hurricane.

President Coolidge deems it the part of wisdom to turn his pet raccoon over to the keeping of the Washington zoo. Considering the present tendency in requiring college educations, it will probably be a lot safer there.

Chew on this one from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat for a bit: "Think of being rich enough to own Catalina Island. With all its landscapes and seascapes and skylines, one wouldn't need to own an art gallery."

A story from Stony Point, New York, says a wild deer was seen on the streets there. That's nothing. A wild deer is a common sight on the streets right here in Marion.

Although he has determined not to enter and receive the royal honors promised him by the enemies of the government down there, we suppose the senator will always look upon himself as the uncrowned King of Hayti.

Car loadings for the week ended March 5 were 994,931, a jump of 71,082 over the preceding week and an increase of 29,922 cars over the corresponding week in 1926 and 62,887 over the corresponding week in 1925. It begins to look as though the railroads have decided to join in the glad Prosperity song.

As it is no longer in session, Wayne B. Wheeler's statement, that congress is not so bad as painted, will probably go unrepresented, but it was hardly the square thing for Wayne to prejudice public opinion like that.

There is no occasion for the paragraphs to show confusion over the fact that the Prince of Wales, riding his own horse, Cark Courier, was an easy winner in the Lord of the Manor Cup race in the Grenadier Guards point-to-point steeplechase at Bicester, last Wednesday, finishing two lengths ahead of the field. Accidents will always happen.

When two crates containing seventy-eight quarts of champagne, four cases of whisky and two of cognac were found by customs officials in the private corridor of a suite on the Leviathan when she docked in New York on her last westward trip, the two occupants of the suite professed to know nothing about the stuff, stating that they didn't even know it was there. Can it be possible that they were unconscious all the way across the Atlantic?

Fifteen Per Cent. Efficient.

After an investigation extending over a period of seven years and involving more than 50,000 individuals in widely-diversified occupations, N. L. Hoopengarner, professor of business psychology in New York University, reported one day last week, that "schools and colleges train young men and women for only about fifteen per cent. of the essentials of a job."

"Business has come to realize," says Professor Hoopengarner, "that the greatest part of its problem is to develop the individual in the effective use of his knowledge, to develop personal qualities. It has been my observation that supervision and personal development of men have caused more executives and sales managers to stay up late at night than any other business problem."

"A man's worth above $80 or $40 a week is dependent on his ability to get favorable results from people. A man who has only technical knowledge to offer can be hired for a very modest figure, regardless of experience or training. But if a man has, in addition to the specific knowledge of his work, the ability to deal with people, his earning capacity and opportunities for advancement are almost limitless."

"Even in a technical study such as engineering, a man's success is due approximately fifteen per cent. to his technical knowledge of his particular field and eighty-five per cent. to his human qualities, primarily those qualities which appeal to his fellow-men and arouse for him in them a feeling of confidence, of trust, of respect and esteem."

There can be no question but what colleges in the past have too closely followed the course which has produced the results of which Professor Hoopengarner complains. But while he has been investigating, some college heads manifestly have arrived, possibly intuitively, at the same conclusion that he has reached and taken steps to bridge the gap between the theories of college and the practical problems of everyday life. Not all of them have done this. Possibly the great majority have not, more's the pity, but some manifestly have come to realize that it is not so much what one knows as how to apply what he knows which counts in the affairs of life, and that he can not apply what he knows to the best advantage unless he has those qualities which differentiate the doers from the dreamers.

Something of a Man.

Toward the close of the session of congress which came to an end early this month, during one of the verbal eruptions for which he is noted, Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, twisted Senator Borah as one who had protested and voted against the $2,500 salary increase of two years ago and yet gladly accepted it ever since. The Idaho senator was present and heard the ring made at him, but in no way made an answer. It has since developed that Senator Borah, so unashamedly that even his fellow-senators were unaware of the fact, refused to accept the increase and has turned it back to the government ever since the salary grab was executed by members of the two houses of congress without a record vote, which, it may be said, is the way salary grabs are usually executed.

It may be urged that the Idaho senator, in following this course, was grandstanding for political effect, intending ultimately to reveal his action. Such is his popularity in his home state that playing politics along this line is not necessary. Again it may be said that he was simply consistent in his well-known tendency to be in opposition to any plan not his own. We can not agree with either of these possible views. We have not always been able to go along with the Idaho senator. As a matter of fact, it is next to impossible for anybody to go along with him if he is aware of the fact. But even at this, we recognize him as a brilliant man and an honest one, possessed of many excellent qualities, one of which is that of being consistent, as made evident in the present case.

Senator Borah's position is this: His constituents selected him to serve them in the senate at a salary of $7,500 a year. He feels that he has no right to vote himself an increase of salary for the term he is serving. If he should be reelected to another term, the salary now having been fixed at $10,000, he would be glad to accept it.

We understand that the senator's accumulation of worldly goods and riches is a very modest one. Living expenses in Washington are high. That he has returned payment after payment, the salary increase paid him, despite the fact that his fellow-members of the senate and the members of the house were accepting it, is a very excellent demonstration of his consistency with his position that the salary grab was wrong. Few men grandstand in that way, and we do not believe that Mr. Borah is grandstanding. Had he wished to make a grandstand play, how easy it would have been for him to have come back with the facts when Mr. Heflin uttered his taunt. It takes something of a man to smile and say nothing under such circumstances. A small man couldn't have done it.

We do not like Senator Borah in many respects, and we are frank to say so. We are in direct opposition to him in the matter of his views on Russia. We feel that his course in commanding with President Calles, of Mexico, was wrong, and that his proposal to hamstring the administration in its Nicaraguan policy was all to the bad and that he knew that it was when he proposed the Nicaraguan junta. There are a multitude of matters in which we wish that he had followed other courses than he has, but for all that he's something of a man and we pay him tribute for so being.

The anthracite operators are mighty considerate in giving us these hints of possible price reduction. In this high-tension age mighty few of us are prepared to withstand shocks.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt says the trousers woman probably will be wearing a few months hence will prove a welcome substitute for skirts; that every woman might as well carry a sandwich board reading "See My Legs," as to wear champagne colored stockings. Go to 'em, Carrie, if you will; but why try to take the joy out of life for the girls?

Although Charley Dawes is not a candidate for the presidency, he naturally feels that it will do no harm to make that new White House roof good and strong.

While it might not be good policy for the president to wear a ten-gallon hat when he goes to the West for his vacation, it will be the part of wisdom for him studiously to refrain from going to the other extreme by wearing a bowler.

For four weeks wreckers, using every known device, have labored in vain to raise a two-story burglar-proof, bomb-proof vault in the former main office of the Mechanics and Metals National bank in New York City. Thus far they have hardly made a dent in it. Our advice would be to build a new bank structure around it. A vault like that should prove an asset.

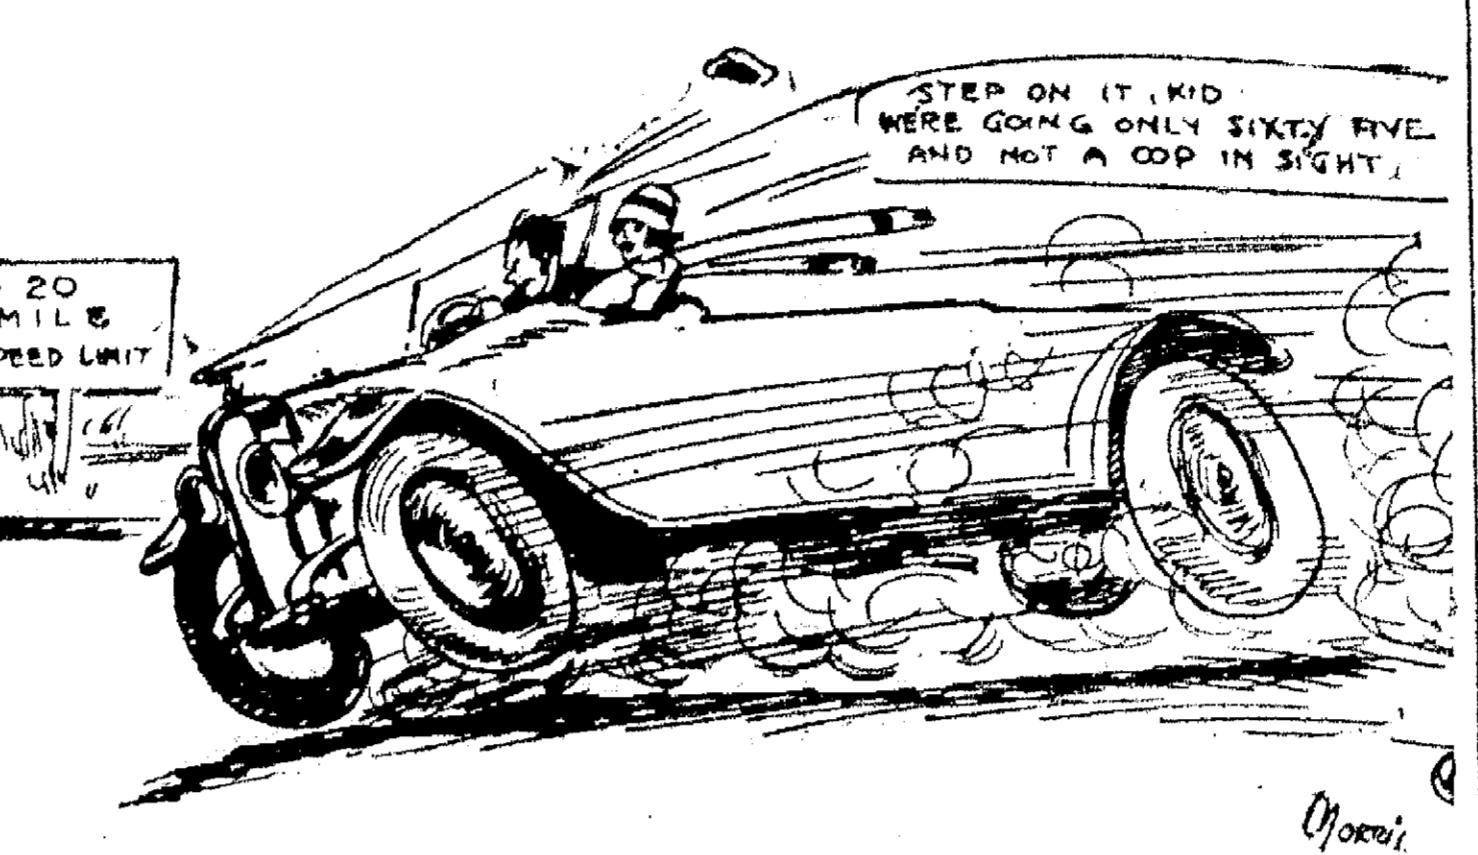

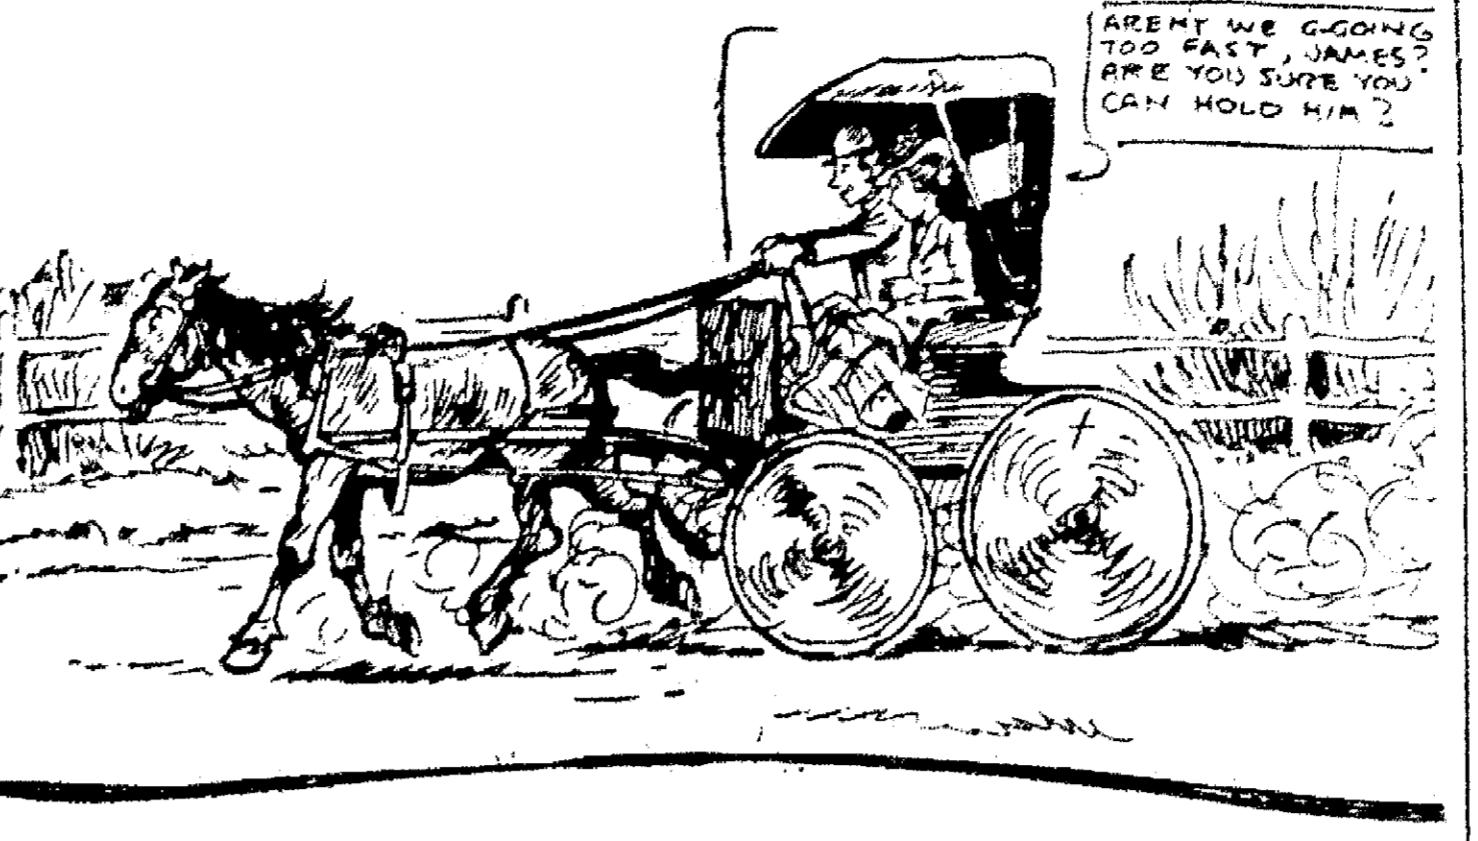

Vagrant Verse.

SECRET.

I heard a tune
And I heard a bell.
And I followed the sound.
For I knew them well.
And down the stairs.
And over the sill.
And up the road.
To the low brown hill.
I followed the sound.
For I knew them well.
The silver bells.
And the golden bell.
I found a star.
And I found a stone.
And a tall tree standing.
There alone.
And the boughs were dumb.
And dark as still.
And a mist lay over.
The low brown hill.
And the star and the stone.
And the tree knew well.
The silver bells.
And the golden bell.
And the low brown hill.
And the mist and I.
Lay and listened.
And wondered why.
The tall tree kept.
Its sleepy head.
And the tall tree answered.
I said and said.
They never heard.
And we never tell.
Or the silver bell.
And the golden bell.

YESTERDAY, AND TODAY.

Make Your Own Waistline.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of my good doctor friends sent me a cut from one of the New York Sunday newspapers. It is a picture of General Robert Lee Bullard, taken on his sixtieth birthday. The general is wearing the uniform of a West Point cadet. It is the very one he wore on his graduation day in 1885, forty-two years ago. The uniform fits as perfectly as if it were made last week.

My friend comments upon the picture, saying there are few persons who could wear at sixty what fitted them at twenty. The doctor says General Bullard is a fine example of what frequent medical examinations, regular living and good sense will do for a man.

I heard a funny definition of middle life. That comes "when a man stops growing at both ends and goes only in the middle." It is a fact that increasing abdominal girth is the surest possible sign of approaching age.

General Bullard has avoided this. He has the same erect, lithe, athletic figure at sixty-six that he had at twenty-four. How many of the rest of us will be able to boast such a figure at sixty-six?

The National Safety council, with headquarters in Chicago, will pay a bonus for the good health of its employees. An hour of exercise must be taken every day. Just what form this shall take is left to the employee. It may be skating, handball, walking; no matter what is done, it is acceptable to the council.

Increasing weight is very likely to be associated with decreased efficiency. "A lean horse for a long race," is an old saying, founded on good sense.

I have known and admired General Bullard for a good many years. I am proud of his personal record and proud of his personal physical record. He has prolonged his life by his attention to health. It is a life worth making longer. It has been a more useful life because of the good health the general has had.

What this hero of the World war has done you can do. You can keep yourself fit by attention to a few rules of conduct. Simple food and abundance of exercise are two rules of greatest importance.

The time to begin care of the body is before there is any known sign of trouble. "A stitch in time saves nine," goes the old saw. So attention to health promotion before there is any sign of wear and tear is the best way of escaping being placed on the shelf.

A Pacifist Opportunity.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Geneva is admitting quite openly that there is not much hope for real continental disarmament unless Russia can be induced to join in the movement to cut down armaments, and Russia is showing no disposition to do any such thing. On the contrary, it is building up its military establishment as rapidly as possible, and at this moment has the biggest standing army in Europe. The situation leads us to review the suggestion of Dr. Sherwood Eddy and other pacifists who may think they stand well in Moscow to go forthwith to that capital and try to induce the gang of cutthroats there to forsake their belligerent ways and enter the paths of peace and disarmament. If the gentiles would do this they might accomplish some good in the world, who knows? At least they would quit making nuisances of themselves in this country.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Is the Colossus of Rhodes meant to represent any one?

A. It represented Helios, the Sun god.

The statue was the work of Charles of Lindus. It was erected by the Rhodians at a cost of 200 talents, apparently as a thank-offering after the successful defense of the city against Demetrius Poliorcetes. It was set up about 280 B. C., but fifty-six years later was overthrown by an earthquake and lay in ruins until 653 A. D., when the Arabs captured the city and sold the metal to a Jewish merchant.

Q. Please give some negro painters of note.

A. Probably the most notable of negro painters is Henry Ossawa Tanner. He was born in Pittsburgh, June 31, 1859. For a time he was a pupil at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Later Tanner studied under Laurens and Constant. In 1886 Tanner received honorable mention for a painting exhibited at the Paris salons. In 1897 he won a third-class medal at this salon. The Lippscott prize was given by the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts was given to Tanner in 1900. He won a gold medal in 1916 at the Panama-Pacific exhibition. Tanner's paintings are confined to Biblical subjects. E. M. Bannister was one of the first negroes in America to achieve success. He was the founder of the Providence, Rhode Island, Art club. At the Centennial exhibition in 1876, his painting "Under the Oaks" was awarded a medal. William A. Harper of Chicago—died 1910—was just coming into prominence when he died. Among his works are "The Last Gleam" and "The Gray Day."

William Edward Scott, born in Indianapolis, March 11, 1884, is a notable name among negro painters. Other painters of this race include Floyd Burkhart, Boston; John Hardin, Indianapolis, and R. L. Brown, New York.

Q. Please give a short sketch about fans.

A. "Customs of Mankind" says that "fans have an interesting history. The first fan was probably a palm leaf or some other natural device appropriated by man to keep away flies or gnats, perhaps even to cool the fevered brow in tropical climates. We know that in Egypt, 2000 years ago, fashionable hosts had special servants to stand behind dinner guests and fan them with huge papyrus fans. In France, the fan reached the height of its development under Louis XIV. We read that "Fans are invaluable accompaniment of feminine costume and that they are of rare beauty, exquisitely painted and mounted on sticks of carved or painted wood, mother-of-pearl, carved ivory, or gold. There are over 500 makers of fans in Paris and they enjoy special privileges accorded to them by the king."

Q. In serving people at dinner should the dishes be passed to the left or right? G. G. G.

A. Dishes are always removed from the right and served from the left.

Q. How did the term tabloid originate? E. B.

A. It originated as a copyright trademark of an English business firm.

HUGE TAX CUT SEEN IF BUSINESS CONTINUES

"Brackets" or "Poor Rich" Will Be Cared for Next

Mar. 19—If general tax reductions continue favorably, the nation will see the greatest tax cut since the war—at least $1 billion dollars, and possibly $2 billion. It was predicted here that neither President Coolidge nor the Treasury Mellon figures, both are agreed that a "cut" is in prospect.

Finance experts have already begun to look over the myriad details of a plan.

According to all indications, one of the beneficiaries of the cut will be the class which is referred to as "the poor rich"—that is, the middle class of income ranging from $15,000 to $30,000. The "little fellows" and their "big fellows" were the chief beneficiaries of former cuts. The corporations also will benefit, as they did in a reduction in the last tax bill.

NEED OF DRAINAGE IS EMPHASIZED BY RAIN

Heavy Precipitation Overtaxes Facilities on W. Center-st; Street Flooded

Great need of better drainage facilities on W. Center-st, between the upper district and Blaine-av, was emphasized during this morning's heavy rainfall.

Water rushing down the thoroughfare along the rain-filled gutters almost even with the height of the curbs and extended five and six feet into the street, making it impossible for pedestrians to cross without stepping into a torrent that was almost to the shoetop.

There are no catch basins along the entire length of W. Center-st to Blaine-av, and in this situation that local officials hope to remedy by installing a storm water sewer when the street is repaved next year.

The rainfall furnished several hours of extra work for employees of the city's department of public service in cleaning out basins from catch basins in some sections of the city. Aside from these places where the sewer openings were temporarily clogged up, there was no serious trouble, Service Director O. A. Benedict stated.

The special benefit derived from the downpour resulted from the city's streets being thoroughly cleaned for the first time in several weeks. The city has no street cleaning fund and occasional help coming from the weather man is about all that can be counted on to solve the problem, local officials say.

POLICE ALARM BOXES TO BE INSTALLED IN PARIS

Paris, Mar. 19.—Parisians will soon know what a police-alarm box looks like. Fire-alarm boxes are to be found on nearly every street-corner and are very often mistaken for a mailbox by the tourist who looks in vain for the little opening for letters, usually to be found in a lampost or beneath the window of the cigar-shop.

Up until now street protection has been dependent upon the good-looking policemen who always walk in pairs, but the officials have learned that they cannot be in all places at once.

JOHN D. OUT ON LINKS EACH DAY IN FLORIDA

Ormond Beach, Fla., Mar. 19.—Despite the occasional wintry winds that blow Florida in the wake of blizzards and snow storms in the north and west, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was seen regularly on the Ormond golf links here.

Wearing a wool sweater under his coat and soft gloves to protect his hands, he appears each morning on the course, usually with General Adelbert Ames, his close companion, or some member of his own family.

1926 PROVES BAD YEAR FOR ITALIAN COMPOSERS

Rome, Mar. 19.—The year 1926 proved a bad one for Italian music, according to the POPOLU DI ROMA, which points out with some bitterness that not a single new work of note was produced, no new maestro came to town, and that the known maestros did not produce a single first-class opera during the year.

LONDON TO HAVE NEW ARTIFICIAL SKATING RINK

London, Mar. 19.—Once more there is to be all-year skating in London.

A palatial building, where it is always winter, has been put up at Grosvenor Road, London, for the benefit of those who want curling and skating without having to go abroad to a winter resort.

It will be known as the London Ice Club and will be the first time for 10 years that the city has had an artificial rink.

The club will be run exclusively on rental basis, and its 10,000 square feet of ice will be for members and their guests only. Life memberships cost $500 and there will be an entrance fee of $50 and an annual subscription fee of the same amount.

The ice rink is 170 feet long and 50 feet wide. Underneath the concrete floor is an extensive system of piping and refrigerating apparatus.

Artificial figure skating championships will be held there next March and the figure championships probably the month after.

Akron Sunday School Teacher, Blonde and Unbowed, Shuns Youth of Today and Tells of Type She Desires for Husband

Akron, Mar. 19.—It isn't the old-fashioned girl who's extinct. It's the old-fashioned man.

Miss Alice Corless, Akron, O., Sunday school teacher, pretty, 21, blonde and unbowed, has given up going with modern youths. "I could have had a husband long ago," she says, "if it had been possible to find one who didn't smoke or dance or shoot pool. But that kind simply doesn't exist."

And yet Miss Corless really doesn't care to be an old maid. Her requirements are simple. The paragraph must be:

Alleged Leader Escapes Sheriff's Posse; Others Captured

Marietta, Mar. 19.—But one of the 18 prisoners who escaped from the county jail here Thursday, remained at liberty today. He is Logan Brake, alleged leader of the delivery, who eluded a sheriff's posse at Davis Run, Friday night. Two of Brake's companions, James Deems and Andrew Colander were captured.

According to Sheriff Way here, Brake's wife was seen to leave her home Friday at dusk, clad in man's attire, and cross the river in a rowboat. She was trailed and led the sheriff and his deputies into a heavily wooded ravine where the men were surprised. Brake escaped in a hidden boat. Scattered about the ravine were evidence the men had been furnished food and clothing since their escape.

SNOW IN OFFING, SAYS WEATHER FORECASTER

Sharp Drop in Temperature Scheduled in Ohio for Tonight, Sunday

Severe shocks are in store for Marion, young lover sufferers, who have developed this ailment from the balmy breezes of the last week.

A sharp drop in the temperature, scheduled for tonight, with a chance of snow falling in the northern part of the state, will wipe out all thoughts of spring, the weather man predicted today. The forecast this morning was: "Much colder tonight and Sunday, with rain probably changing to snow."

More spring-like weather was looked for by those who are tired of winter last night, but the clear skies disappeared behind heavy clouds and a pre-April shower soaked this section of the state and continued today, undiminished. Temperatures yesterday were 64 degrees high, and 42 degrees low, almost the same as a year ago, when Ohio was just recovering from a cold wave that took the mercury down below the 20-degree mark. The cold wave this year is later than last, and may not be quite as severe.

A local cavalry company is parading the streets. National guard units are being rushed in from Iowa and Yates Center on order of the governor. All hardware stores are under guard to prevent seizure of arms.

Martial law was declared when more than 1,000 white citizens, armed with clubs and a few with firearms, attempted to invade the negro settlement. The negroes barricaded themselves in their homes and fired upon the mob. More than 100 shots were exchanged.

Sheriff's forces, reinforced by the cavalry company, succeeded in dispersing the mob, but not until three white persons had been wounded.

The Little White Hag

By FRANCIS BEEDING

She crossed the bandage, which was wetting, bore a white, and my task became every more unbecoming. "It is the light. The police are not here. I pointed to where the door was open. "The police are not here," she said.

Patience moved past me. Her head held high. I followed her with Clapole's role.

The Center was as we had last seen him, bent double before the picture of the Mikado.

"Take her away," whispered Clapole to me. "She can't possibly stand it."

Patience turned and heard him.

"How little you know," she said, and bending down, she laid her hand on the Center's shoulder.

"Anata," she whispered. "this is good."

She stood for a moment, her hand resting on his head. Then with a gesture of great dignity, she raised herself and turned to face us.

"I am ready," she said.

She stood there, her face dead white and her eyes burning.

I found no words, but Clapole said gently: "Madam, unless we find ourselves compelled to do so, we do not propose to arrest you."

He looked him up and down.

"So you hate us!" she said quietly.

Quicksands

BY ADELE GARRISON

of Love

It was only for a fleeting instant that

Dicky's glance crossed mine through the window of the limousine. Lately I am able to control myself, but I was horrified to hear a sudden tremor in it when I answered my companion's question.

"Yes, I think it was he."

Out of the corner of my eye, I saw Mr. Veriten's head turn away from the table to which he had given momentary attention, and knew that his eyes were resting intently upon me.

I am afraid you are upset about something," he said at last, his re

sonorous voice softened to a velvety sym pathetic murmur. "Please believe I wouldn't cause you any embarrassment or annoyance for worlds. I may be misunderstood, but—well, I was in my im pression that your husband might not appreciate this eminently matter-of-fact drive of ours."

He was either diabolically clever or my overwrought nerves read a meaning into his little speech which was not there. But as vividly as if he had spoken the words, there came to me the impression that he considered Dicky a naïve-minded specimen of the jealous male, who was capable of deliberately misunderstanding a commonplace com pany. The implication was plain also or so it seemed to me, that my worri

ng over Dicky's viewpoint appeared extremely archaic as well as amusing also to the great dramatic producer.

The air in the limousine seemed sud denly stinging, although one of the win dows was down. I was horribly afraid that my nervous anger would get the better of me, and above everything else

I was determined that Mr. Veriten should not guess my emotion. With an effort worthy of a better cause, I pulled myself together, and answered him with light casualities.

"Oh! I am sure Dicky never thinks enough about it to know whether he approves or not," I said with a laugh.

I suppose your inference is drawn from the fact that he did not recognize us just now, but if you knew him as I

you would realize that he probably did not see us at all. When he is think ing out the details of some new illustra tion he goes around seeing nothing and with his face screwed up into the most horrible faces. It is a wonder to me that he isn't run over. He is the most absent-minded person."

Hearing of Raichley Suit
Postponement Seen

Question of whether the Supreme Court of the United States will hear the suit brought to set aside the will of the late Burr Raichley, who died in 1924 and bequeathed all but a small sum to his attorney, Mrs. May Berg, and Frederick C. Raichley, cousins of Burr Raichley and living in Wisconsin and Minnesota, respectively, after a hearing before the nation's highest tribunal, has been adjourned. The hearing was adjourned because the defendants, having the proceedings come before the nation's highest tribunal, had no objection to the action of the lower court, and the court, in turn, had no objection to the action of the attorney general, who had filed a motion for a writ of habeas corpus against the defendants, who had been held in custody since the filing of the suit.

THE MARION STAR, SATURDAY, MARCH

Co-Ed Smashes Precedent

For the first time in the history of Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., a co-ed has been elected to the office of a class president. The distinction belongs to Miss Emma Oehlert, above, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who now is president of the freshman class at the school.

Now Senator Borah Becomes "Spokesman" Busy One, Too

Idaho Solon Burlesques President's Activity and Booms Own Candidacy

BL. CHARLES P. STEWART WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—Before the summer's end Senator William E. Borah's "spokesman" promises to have become as widely known a character in Washington fiction as the "presidential spokesman" himself.

Probably the country's too well acquainted with the "presidential spokesman" to need an introduction to him.

He was born of the rule that the president mustn't be quoted.

He frequently says something he William E. Borah wants repeated but it isn't difficult to attribute it to him directly.

The "presidential spokesman" was invented to get around this difficulty. Everybody with a mite of experience knows that the "presidential spokesman" means the president.

Senator Borah's "spokesman" has only just appeared on the scene.

BORAH is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. It's a position which gives vast weight to his views concerning America's international policies.

By endorsing them he can greatly help the president. By opposing them he can gravely handicap him.

Much to the White House's annoyance, this latter is what Borah has pretty consistently done. Especially is he out of sympathy with the administration's course in Mexico and Nicaragua. Every time the state department made a move south of the Rio Grande, so long as congress was in session, the senator followed it up with a speech denouncing it as all wrong.

GOVERNMENT executives always are glad when congress adjourns. They were gladder than usual this time, for they figured it would put a stop to the worst of Borah's talking. True, he gave warning that he intended to keep on fighting, but nobody expected more from him than an occasional interview, an interval sort of thing. Looking in continuity, hard to time psychologically and without the much of a regular speech or a "spokesman," ponderous utterances.

Little did Washington realize the scheme the Idaho solon had up his sleeve.

He didn't go home, as most other members of congress did. He stayed right here. Every day, from his headquarters in the senate office building, he's giving out an "official statement," through his "spokesman," meaning himself, just like the president.

THAT "spokesman" stuff was a stroke of real genius.

It exalts Borah. It puts him in the presidential class. It practically announces his White House candidacy, which Borah certainly doesn't mind a bit. In that sense it kills two birds with one stone.

At the same time it burlesques the "presidential spokesman," detracting very noticeably from the impressiveness of what the latter has to say. It's been taken for granted hitherto that a "spokesman" was the exclusive prerogative of a president. That idea's punctured now, with the utmost ease, and

PROSECUTOR TO BRING HABEAS CORPUS ACTIONS

Cincinnati To Aid Poor Prisoners Serving Time for Unpaid Liquor Fines

Colonel Max Pfeifer, Prosecutor for B. Taft, was expected to name one of his assistants to bring habeas corpus actions in behalf of prisoners now in long time for unpaid liquor fines.

The county prosecutor will bring this action for those who cannot afford to retain counsel, it was said. There will be about a dozen such persons held in the county jail here.

Other information: Cincinnati Plea Judge Stanley Strode released seven persons through habeas corpus actions taken upon the recent United States Supreme Court decision which ordered unconstitutional the operation of 160 of the state and village liquor courts.

These freed yesterday were: Asa May and Samuel Brady, of Dayton, Ohio; Washington, Michigan, of Siletz, O., and four Cincinnati men, all of whom were serving sentences for non-payment of liquor taxes of different amounts.

MARTIN VERBURG

General Secretary Marion M. C. A. outlined the growth of a number of Hi-Y Clubs in response to the question, "What is the Hi-Y Club?" and stated that "The Hi-Y Club is a voluntary organization of purposeful young men who are seeking opportunities for themselves and for the world in which they are a part."

He said Chapman, Kan., was the first Hi-Y club organized in the Christian Association, and that a continuing existence of some 150 clubs along the line of the Missouri River, but the Chapman club was the organization of record to give evidence of permanence. This group was organized in a country high school, and for the large industrial centers, the Hi-Y Club holds the movement to its apex, in which large centers are not able to give to any organization the same branch of the Y. M. C. A. Club, but adopted the name of Hi-Y Club and organized in 1920. In view of the fact that the father and son, when we think about this time, the young men seemed to lend strength to the movement, for from this time on we get Hi-Y Clubs springing up all over the country, until today there are nearly 1,000 of such clubs. Many are organized on foreign fields under the direction of Y. M. C. A. secretaries.

Purpose of Movement

Every person asks next why this movement has grown to the extent it has, and to begin that the purpose of the movement seems to be its very best, to look back to the cause, and to return to this movement and to help him to this movement and to greatly assist its early progress.

Immediately following the war, we

Two Old-Time Fire Engines Will Be Shown Here in Connection With Benefit Film

Two old-time fire engines of the hand-power type used many years ago, will be an interesting exhibit here next week in connection with the showing of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer motion picture, "The Fire Brigade," at the Marion theater.

These two specimens of ancient fire-fighting equipment, still in running order, were obtained from the Prospect Fire Engine Manufacturing Co., and will be exhibited in front of the local theater all of next week while "The Fire Brigade" is being presented. Both pieces of equipment were formerly used by Ohio villages and were traded in when new machines were bought from the Prospect company.

One of the engines first went into service more than 50 years ago and the other dates back about 40 years.

Street Parade

Plans are also under way to stage a street parade to advertise "The Fire Brigade," which is to be shown here

LARGE CONGREGATION IN ATTENDANCE AT REVIVAL

Rev. Myron Taylor Preaches on "The Devil's Partners" at Epworth Church

With the largest number of persons in attendance since the opening of the revival there last Sunday, Rev. Myron Taylor, evangelist, preached on the subject "The Devil's Partners" at the revival service at Epworth M. E. Church last night.

His text was Matthew, 12:30. "He that is not with Me is against Me and he that gathereth not with Me scattereth abroad."

"The text itself helps one to determine just who the devil's partners are," the evangelist said. "There is a middle point between hating the Lord and being His enemy. Jesus said, 'We are on one side of the line or the other—we are in the service of Christ or the service of satan, and it is not sufficient to be members of the church or officials of the church,' Reverend Taylor declared. 'For Jesus also said, "He that gathereth not with Me scattereth abroad." We are supposed to be winning souls for Christ,' he concluded.

Professor Gilbert Ottoson sang "Nothing Between," and the Epworth Chorus, "All Hail, Emmanuel."

Reverend Taylor announced his subject for the Sunday night service,

"Is There a Hell?" Special vocal numbers will be sung by the chorus and vocal solos by Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford, W. E. Orcutt, and Gilbert Ottoson.

MARION COUNTY CONFERENCE OF BOYS IS OPENED

One Hundred Youths Assemble at Y. M. C. A. Building for First Meeting

One hundred youths of this city and from all parts of Marion County are assembled at the Y. M. C. A. here today in attendance at the first annual Older Boys' Conference, which got under way last night and will continue until late Sunday afternoon.

W. S. Chambers, representative from the state department of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the conference early today. Taking Christ as an example of the virile man, Mr. Chambers declared that the two paramount things in the life of a youth is caring for the body and keeping self-control. Discreet Groups

Following his talk, the meeting was divided into discussion groups, each delegate to the conference being assigned a group. Questions important in the life of the young man of today were discussed among the groups.

The meeting this morning was held in the Presbyterian Church and was followed by a banquet dinner in the Epworth M. E. Church. A basketball tournament began at the Y. M. C. A. at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will be followed by a concert by the Marion String Shovel band at 7:30 tonight. Coach John W. Wiles of Ohio State University, will also address the meeting tonight.

The conference opened last night with a banquet at the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. Raymond W. Smiley, pastor of the church, gave a brief talk on the subject, "Daniel—A Model for Men."

PRICE DROP ANNOUNCED IN PACKARD MOTOR CARS

Reduction Affects Three Models, Hoch Motor Sales Co.

Learns

Reduction of $225 in the price of three popular models of Packard cars are announced today by Hoch Motor Sales Co., local dealers.

The three models on which the price reduction is effective are the five passenger sedan, the five passenger phaeton and the four passenger roadster. The models are made with a 120-tube wheelbase six cylinder types.

Expansion of the Packard plant, on which more than $8,000,000 has been spent in the last year to increase facilities and production, lowered costs of production and greater sales than ever before made the reduction in these three models possible, according to the announcement.

The price reduction makes the six cylinder, five passenger sedan list at $2,250, at Detroit. This is less than half the price of the car when it was introduced seven years ago as one of the first fine small cars, and according to factory officials it has been Packard's largest selling model.

NEA SERVICE INC.

CHAPTER I
The Indianapolis Flyer, southbound to Chicago, was sweeping along in a black trench of a rain when it got into October of the year it was ten o'clock. Martha Dalton, her own seat in the brilliant red Buick, had been for a moment later two station agents reported with big noise of tarpaulin. Nurse Dalton had the woman up on her feet.

"You've got to be going," she said. "Goodbye, and thanks. You're a real man." She took the limp figure in her own strong arms. The porter, his dark eyes glowing, rushed out to catch his train. "And she is?" asked Prof. Elwell, who she is?" questioned Prof. Elwell with his ready sympathy, but a still playing his game of watchful waiting, still holding his thumb in the dyke of passion, trying to forestall the catastrophe.

It was her professional interest and her womanly sympathies that had forever seeking an outlet when she had been challenged. It was the old "mother call," that was hammering at Martha Dalton's heart. "But what?" she kept asking herself, "is there any kind of humor that can be said to say is 'better to die in a sink room than any place?'" "Why should I concern myself with the possibility of every woman's troubles?" Lord knows I've got enough of my own, and to say?

Prof. Martha Dalton—"Mother" Dalton had affectionately nicknamed her, in the big maternity hospital where for four years she had labored with life and death, with infants, with graduate and undergraduate students, from the citadel of her ardent stewardship as ward supervisor, "Mother" Dalton—Martha of the Hoosier whose cry to arms might have been "Come all ye nameless babes and forsaken mothers and damned be that forsakes ye!"

The woman who had aroused these thoughts in Martha Dalton on that memorable night, a woman young, beautiful and alone, and wearing the badge of culture in the poise of her proud head, occupied a deep leather chair across from a window. Spread across the back of her chair was a soft-skin rug. The handsome suit of brown reddish she was wearing bore the unmistakable stamp of New York tailoring. Her ungloved hands were clasped tightly over a portmanteau resting in her lap.

On the floor at the side of her chair, a richly plumed Gainsborough hat, a splendid diamond sparkled on one tiger. On another gleamed a heavy sealing ring. A great mass of bronzed hair like the rippling flow of sun copper graced the shapely head, and the face, turned slightly away from the rain-lashed window pane, was tragic in its expression. In the depths of the dark eyes looking straight ahead was a tragic story that seemed to tell of wrecked hopes and a shattered faith.

At times, as she watched, Nurse Dalton would see the woman's clasped fingers grip the knuckles in a convulsive clutch. The mobile mouth would grow strangely distorted for a fleeting moment, and then the handsome eyes would leap a frantic gleam, to hold for a brief count and then gradually fade again.

"That woman," the watcher finally told herself, "is suffering from mental and physical torture. Unless I am greatly mistaken, she ought to be got into a hospital and that pretty quick, so I reckon, after all, that it's up to me."

At that instant the train began to slow up. They were nearing the station of Martha Dalton's own home, Caudenville. She rose with weary determination and crossed over to the woman by the window.

"Please pardon me, madam," she began in a voice that cut sharp above the scream of wind and the splash of rain. "It's Dalton out here—Nurse Dalton!"

An instant and the door was opened wide. A man, good looking, young, with a face alive with friendly interest, stood outside in the opening. Behind him stood a pretty young woman with a boy of, perhaps, five by her side. Nurse Dalton stepped quickly inside, followed by the agent with his burden wrapped in a soft, warm coat. The young couple and the little boy stood with wide-open eyes.

"A woman taken ill, on the train," began the nurse at once, and her tongue worked fast. "She's fainted. It's an emergency case, so I had Charlie bring her here. I know you both would be glad to help. There's no time to take her out to St. Mary's."

Behind him stood a pretty young woman with a boy of, perhaps, five by her side. Nurse Dalton stepped quickly inside, followed by the agent with his burden wrapped in a soft, warm coat. The young couple and the little boy stood with wide-open eyes.

"A woman taken ill, on the train," began the nurse at once, and her tongue worked fast. "She's fainted. It's an emergency case, so I had Charlie bring her here. I know you both would be glad to help. There's no time to take her out to St. Mary's."

"At that instant the train began to slow up. They were nearing the station of Martha Dalton's own home, Caudenville. She rose with weary determination and crossed over to the woman by the window.

"Please pardon me, madam," she began in a voice that cut sharp above the scream of wind and the splash of rain. "It's Dalton out here—Nurse Dalton!"

An instant and the door was opened wide. A man, good looking, young, with a face alive with friendly interest, stood outside in the opening. Behind him stood a pretty young woman with a boy of, perhaps, five by her side. Nurse Dalton stepped quickly inside, followed by the agent with his burden wrapped in a soft, warm coat. Louise Patch Victorious Over 10 Other Contestants with Oration, "Rural Reconstruction"; Chorus of 125 Voices Presents Program

Marysville, Mar. 19—Louise Patch, a student at Magnetic Springs High School was awarded first honors by the judges at the third annual Union County Oratorical contest held in the local Methodist Church last night. Her oration was "Rural Reconstruction" and she was awarded a silver medal as the reward for winning the first division of the judges. According to Prof. Denning of Ohio Northern University, chairman of the judging committee, they made the decision in her favor because of her ability of winning the audience and holding its attention.

Second and third prizes, which were both bronze medals, were awarded to Margaret Shoup, of Richwood, who spoke on the subject of "Caged the Devils" and Nellie Niel of Watkins, who took for her subject, "The Top of the World." Both orations were well given and received considerable comment from the judges. There were eight other contestants.

LOCAL REALTY
BOARD ACTIVE
ORGANIZATION

Member of State, National Associations; Elevation of Real Estate Trade Purpose

The National Realtors' Board began its organization back in 1907 when the St. Louis, Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis real estate boards presented an invitation extended by E. S. Judd, then president of the Chicago real estate board to attend its annual banquet. The Duluth board received the compliment by inviting those boards to meet in Duluth in August of that year. At that meeting Mr. Judd outlined a program for a national organization of real estate boards. This resulted in a call being sent out at a later date by the St. Louis and Chicago real estate boards for a meeting to be held in Chicago in May, 1908 to form a national association.

Invitations Sent

Invitations were mailed to 45 boards of the United States and Canada. This convention marked what is known as the beginning of the national organization of real estate men. Members of this organization called themselves realtors, and from then until today the organization has grown and spread over the entire country. Today there are hundreds of boards with thousands of members.

The term realtor is defined as a real estate broker who is a member of a local board having membership in the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Objects of Board

The objects of the realtors' board are as follows:

To establish and standardize the business of real estate brokerage, so that it shall obtain and hold the confidence and respect of both owners and purchasers; to maintain the dignity and responsibility of its members in their duty to the public to institute rules for uniform commissions, customs and practices so far as they may be reasonable; to cultivate, and enforce fair dealing and foster good fellowship among its members in their business of buying, selling, renting, and managing real estate and buying money thereon; to provide an organized center of effort for adequate and economic civic development; to promote just and even taxation; to promote such a system of law and administration as shall protect our citizens, encourage industry, and attract the desirable population to which our condition entitles us; to especially guard and advance the interests of real estate ownership and less-holding; and to devise, advocate, and support legislation calculated to improve our cities.

Real Estate Education

It is the plan to aggressively push forward the development of real estate education in real estate boards, in extension schools, and in the universities. To seek diligently men of ripe experience who can and will present the real estate literature upon which real estate education must rest. The realtors endeavor to interest their limited opportunities in attending school, or through the mail, import to them the knowledge that they assemble, striving not only to collect those facts and principles which are already known, but through research discover new sources of knowledge and develop new principles.

Local Board

The Marion Real Estate Board is a very active organization with a large membership. The following men are members of the local board and are entitled to call themselves realtors:

J. W. Jacoby, R. T. Lewis, Stewart

G. Glaser, L. C. Wogau, C. D.

NEW FACTORY
DISTRICT BEING PLANNED HERE

Propose To Lay Out Industrial Section Near Wilson Bo-
hannan Plant

Tentative plans now under way for mapping out a new industrial district on ground located near the site of the Wilson Bohannan Co. factory on Buckeye St. are expected to be fully definite in the near future.

The first step was taken by City Council last Monday night when a deed from A. G. Edmondson and F. A. Huber, owners of the land, for a strip of ground to be used in extending Buckeye St. to the Hocking Valley railway was authorized. This extension of Buckeye St. will give the Wilson Bohannan Co. an outlet to the railway and will also provide the same facility for other industries which may be located in that neighborhood in the future.

Plans for the development include opening of a new street from Buckeye St. to Bellefontaine, paralleling Davison St. It is proposed to plan the ground between this new thoroughfare and the Hocking Valley railway into sites suitable for small factories.

The plans also call for installation of railway sidings and a driveway for motor and horse drawn vehicles east of the land, the driveway coming up with Buckeye St. and Bellefontaine.

This location, with the railway at the east, Bellefontaine at the south, the proposed new street at the west and Buckeye St. at the north, will be one of the best in the city for industrial purposes, it is claimed.

In addition, Monnett, connecting with Buckeye St., furnishes a means of entrance and egress at the north.

Construction work on the Wilson Bohannan factory building, the first to be located on this tract of land, is scheduled to start Monday. The general contract was recently awarded to John Baldau & Son, local building firm, which has completed arrangements for getting the work under way next week.

The Wilson Bohannan factory, facing Buckeye St., will contain 12,000 square feet of floor space. The industry, which has been operating for a number of years in Brooklyn, N. Y., has an extensive market already established for its products, which are locks and other hardware supplies.

Central Juniors Defeat Vernon Heights, 21-15

Stage Comeback to Win Annual Cage Classic at Y. M. C. A. in Last Period

Hall Packed to Doors and Roof as Two Rivals Clash in Hectic Basketball Battle; Juniors Trail Most of Game, but Forge Ahead at End

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

STAGING a brilliant comeback in one of the greatest cage battles waged on the Y. M. C. A. gym court this season, the fighting green and white warriors of Central Junior High last night came from behind to vanquish their bitterest foes and rivals, Vernon Heights Juniors, 21 to 15, before a crowd that numbered about 800 persons.

It was the basketball classic of the season for the two schools. Everybody was there. They were literally hanging on the rafters in the balcony to get an occasional glimpse of what was going on below. Spectators not only packed the hall to the doors but did their best to fill it to the roof.

While the lucky—or unlucky—would be spectators were fighting for a view of the battle ground, the eager were banting for supremacy on a floor that was made smaller than usual by the continuous swaying back and forth of the multitude on the sidelines.

Vernon Leads

The Scarlet and Gray lads from Vernon Heights had things their own way in the first quarter, and, in fact, all during the initial half. At one time they were leading the stage-struck Central 7 to 1, and going strong. It looked like a walkaway for Vernon, the school that has not won a game in the great series between the two Juniors buildings in recent years.

Led by Howard Merchant, another of the famous athletic Merchants who have gained fame in Marion sport circles, the Vermonites were topping their rivals, 12 to 8, at the half. Merchant made three field goals. Shultz connected for a bucket, Akron was responsible for a field and a free throw, and Henry was credited with a charity marker for Coach Crane's crew. Adams, Wilhelm, Klinge, and Castner were responsible for Central's eight points.

Neither side lacked in pep and the game was as many for one group as the other. College demonstration added to the festivities between halves. Central Junior girls struttin their stuff regardless of the fact that their team was four points arrears in the score. Vernon Heights boys and girls formed their "V" and had their girls between halves.

War Again

And then the war began anew. A field goal by Castner of Central brought the green and white within two points of their rivals but Henry of Vernon added two more via a field marker. Then Klinge again brought the Central to the front with two free throws and it remained for the diminutive Bill Adams to tie the score at 14 all with only a few seconds left in the third period. Central went wild. The balcony cracked as the ardent green and white supporters gave exhibition of an Indian war dance.

But quiet suddenly descended on Central 10 seconds later when John Castner was ushered to the bench as a result of four personal fouls and Merchant dropped in the free throw that broke the tie in favor of Vernon. There the quarter ended. Bus Hinkin replaced Castner.

Wilhelm Breaks Tie

Two minutes after the final period got under way, "Cox" Wilhelm of Central, skipped down the court and calmly deposited the sphere in the netted bucket for the two points that placed Coach Gable's men in the lead for the first time during the game. They were never overtaken. In fact

MANSFIELD AND SOUTH DEFEATED IN TOURNAMENT

Salem and Oberlin Look Like Winners in Class A and B Meets

Columbus, Mar. 19.—Having survived the first round of a play in the fifth annual high school basketball tournament here last night, teams of class "A" from Dover, Salem, Portsmouth and Toledo, Waite high schools were selected to clash in the semi-finals at the Coliseum this afternoon.

Class "B" winners of the first round and who will also battle this afternoon for the right to play in the finals, include quintets from Hinsdale, Oberlin, Kent and Hillsboro-Marshall high schools. "Class "B" Eliminations in the semi-finals are scheduled to start at 1 p. m. with the class "A" contests beginning at 2:30 p. m. winners of both classes will play the final games for State championship tonight.

Mansfield Defeated

Dover High School, rated by critics as a third class team before the start of the tourney, pulled a surprise by winning from the Mansfield High School aggregation by a score of 23 to 16, in one of the feature games of the night.

With the score standing at 11 to 12 in favor of Dover at the end of the first half, the eastern district champions held the Mansfield players to a single field goal and two foul goals in the final period.

Salem Wins

The Salem five displayed championship form in defeating the strong eagles from Dayton Stixies with a score of 22 to 18. The Salem team obtained a lead over the Daytonians in the opening minutes and held it throughout the contest.

In defeating the champions of the central district, South High, Columbus, the Waite High basketeers of Toledo, returned to the 4,000 fans, gathered at the Coliseum last night, a strong contender for the state championship of the Class "A" division. The team is built around its flashy forwards, Kreiger and Bartko, who were largely responsible for the victory over the Columbus team last night. The final score of the game was 36 to 25.

Portsmouth On Top

In the remaining contest in the "A" section, South High School of Youngstown lost its opportunity of remaining in the running by dropping a hard fought battle to Portsmouth High School eagles. The score was 19 to 17.

Oberlin High, winners of the class "B" title of state champions last year, displayed a winning form in eliminating Toledo yesterday afternoon, 25 to 12, and Wilmington last night, 22 to 19. Gaines, center of the Oberlin team, who won a berth on the all-state team in the last two years, was the star of the game.

Hinsdale Wins

Hinsdale defeated Conroy, 31 to 11. Kent beat Tippecanoe, 30 to 26, and Hillsboro-Marshall was the winner over Kunkle High School, 31 to 25, in the remaining contests of "B" division yesterday afternoon.

Dover and Portsmouth are paired to meet in the first clash in the class "A" semi-finals. The winner of Dover-Portsmouth contest will draw the victor of the Salem-Waite game in the final. Oberlin will meet Hinsdale and Kent will play Marshall in the class "B" game.

From the play in the first round, experts have predicted that Waite of Toledo and Dover will meet in the class "A" final with Oberlin and Kent battling in class "B" championship game.
